OVERVIEW OF COURSE: This course will provide an overview international law and organizations. This course will introduce students to the fundamentals of international law and organizations, including enforcement and compliance issues, sources of international law, dispute resolution in international law, international law's relationship with U.S. law, an introduction to international human rights, international law regarding the use of force, and international environmental law.

READINGS: Readings are from Sean Murphy, Principles of International Law (2d. Edition) and supplemental readings posted on Moodle. Readings for each class are listed below. Where readings include additional readings beyond the Murphy text, the readings are listed below, and on moodle attached in the section for the applicable class below. All students are responsible for reading the assigned Murphy text and the additional text listed in the syllabus and attached below for each class. Students are expected to come to class prepared to answer questions and engage in meaningful discussion regarding the subject matter in each listed reading.

GRADING/ASSESSMENT: Students' grades will be determined as follows:

- 50% Final – Cumulative open book exam on May 10. Location to be announced.
- 25% Mid-Term – Open book take home exam. Mid-term will be posted to moodle on Tuesday, March 6th. Students must turn in a hard copy of their mid-term answer to class on Thursday, March 8 at the beginning of class. No late answers will be accepted.
- 25% Class participation and reading questions – No later than 24 hours prior to class, I will post reading questions for the reading for the upcoming class. Students must bring a hard copy of their reading question responses to class. Each reading question response will be worth approximately 2% of your grade. Reading question responses need not be more than a paragraph per question response, and must show that the student has read the material assigned.

Objectives and Learning Outcomes: At the end of this course, students should have a clear idea of the rules, actors, and disputes resolution mechanisms in international law. Additionally, students should have an understanding of the history and conceptual underpinnings of international law. Students should be knowledgeable regarding the international human rights' history, multi-lateral and regional treaty regimes, substantive rights, monitoring of human rights compliance and dispute resolution. Substantive rights covered in this class include rights guaranteed to all, rights guaranteed to specific groups, and prohibitions on specific conduct. Students should also be knowledgeable regarding international law of use of force.

Office Hours: I will have office hours on Thursday in Corbin 332 from 3:50 – 4:50 pm on Thursdays. I am also available by email, phone, and by appointment.
