Introduction

Welcome to WRIT 101! My name is Molly Gray (Molly is just fine) and I am your instructor. We meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 12PM in LA 102. All my instructor information is listed above—if you need anything, you can e-mail me, leave notes in my mailbox, or drop by my office.

Here’s my request for you all: at times, we will cover controversial, heavy, and / or uncomfortable material during the semester. In discussion, seek first to understand and then to be understood. This means that you may not agree with your classmate’s opinions, values, or arguments, but you must listen to and have respect for their position before communicating your own ideas. While I welcome discussion in this class, I will not tolerate any discriminatory or hateful language.

I expect you to come to class prepared to learn, discuss, and engage with me and your classmates. Please don’t let cell phones, laptops, unfinished homework / readings, or other stuff get in the way of this.

Sometimes, stuff does get hard. If you’re struggling academically, emotionally, socially, or financially, the University of Montana provides services that can help you. Here’s a quick list. (This information is also listed in the back of A Guide to College Writing I).

- The Office for Student Success (Lommasson) helps students to meet three goals: transition smoothly to college, remain enrolled / progress in a program of study, and graduate on time. It includes the Writing and Public Speaking Center (which helps students at all writing levels and stages in Room 271), TRiO Student Support Services (Room 180), the Undergraduate Advising Center (Room 269), and many, many tutoring resources.

- Disability Services for Students (DSS, Lommasson 154) ensures that programs at the University of Montana are as accessible to and usable by students with disabilities as they are for any student.

- The Curry Health Center includes Counseling, Dental, Medical, Wellness, and the Student Advocacy Resource Center (SARC), which provides free and confidential support for those affected by discrimination, sexual violence, and interpersonal violence. Call Curry Health Center at 406-243-2122 to schedule appointments for any of their services. For emergencies, call 9-1-1.

- Behavioral Intervention Team (BIT, Curry Health Center) is a campus-wide team of appointed professionals responsible for assessing, and responding to serious concerns, distress and/or disruptive behaviors related to students that may threaten the health or safety of the campus community. Here is a link to their reporting form: https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?UnivofMontana&layout_id=10

- The Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action (Brantly Hall, Room 115) is charged with administering the University's policy on Discrimination, Harassment, Sexual Misconduct, Stalking, and Retaliation, and is home to the University’s Title IX Coordinator and ADA Coordinator.

- The Veteran’s Education and Transition Services Office (VETS, VETS Office) assists veterans and their family members in achieving academic success.
Course Description
WRIT 101 is designed to challenge you to learn the skills you’ll need to excel as a scholar at the University of Montana. Throughout the semester you will learn to engage rhetorical habits of mind to write confident, graceful, academic essays that explore topics vital to your life.

Our work this semester will be guided by three central questions that prompt both inward and outward reflection:

- Where is your life speaking? (That is, what motivates you in your own life? What inspires you? Where do your interests lie? What do you identify with?)
- How can writing contribute to our communities?
- How can we use writing to create a life in community and a life of contribution?

Writing is a process of discovery. Our work this semester, therefore, will seek answers to the aforementioned questions. Together we will explore:

- Ourselves — How can language help us to know ourselves better and to express our unique self?
- Our Communities — Where and with whom are we in community, and how can language bring us into real connection and presence with our communities?
- Our Contributions — How do we want to contribute to the people and places that matter to us?

Our aim will be to build bridges between two very important reasons for writing: 1) to foster our intellectual and personal growth; and 2) to carry that consciousness into the world we share with others in a meaningful way. Together, I hope that we will expand our understanding of the possibilities that language, writing, and education offer within and beyond the classroom.

WRIT 101 is designed for you to experience writing as both a learning process and a practice capable of accomplishing multiple outcomes in diverse contexts. With this goal in mind, you will participate in writing for different audiences and purposes, and in several genres. This exposure should equip you with the knowledge and tools to write in the many other contexts that you will likely encounter in the future. Assignments will involve self-reflection designed to help you develop writing strategies that meet your individual needs and goals. I’ll also help you develop flexible reading, writing, and research processes to help you develop as a college writer. Much of your work will involve different kinds of collaboration, including small group workshops, individual writing conferences, and presentations.

Because writing development is an important process that takes place over time and across different writing situations, all WRIT 101 classes use portfolio evaluation as the primary means to assess your work in class. This means that over the course of the semester you will receive copious amounts of feedback, suggestions for revision, and encouragement to take risks in your writing, but you will not receive any letter grades until you submit your final portfolio at the end of the class. The reasoning behind this pedagogy is that portfolio evaluation shifts the focus of your writing from product to process. To do this, you will be asked to reflect and revise your work over the entire semester. You will be invited to think about writing in deep, meaningful ways without getting distracted by traditional letter grades. I understand that this methodology is challenging at first, because it asks you to break habitual and fossilized patterns of submitting work and receiving a grade. However, it is important to note that as you develop as a writer, the habits of mind you will learn in WRIT 101 will enable you to transfer your writing processes into other situations such as classes in your major, job materials, etc. and for transfer to occur, it is critical that you honor process over product.

Course Texts

A Guide to College Writing
Triple Divide
Course website/Moodle

Important Note about Required Course Texts: Due to the interactive nature of WRIT 101, the required textbooks are designed as workbooks. This means that you will be expected to use these texts dynamically—you will need to sign forms, complete checklists, reflect on revisions and conferences, perform invention work, complete journal entries, etc.
By the end of the semester, your workbook will be well-loved with many pages missing as they become part of your final portfolio. For this reason, you must purchase a new copy of the texts from the UM bookstore. Since a used copy will be missing critically important material, the bookstore will NOT be selling any used copies. Please refrain from selling used copies to your peers who are taking the course in a different semester, as you will not be helping them by selling them an incomplete book that they cannot use.

Other Requirements
- notebook and writing utensils for in-class writing
- binder/folder for final portfolio

Major Assignments/Portfolio
Expect to write and revise three different projects/major assignments and one reflective theory of writing (does not get revised) over the course of this class, in addition to other informal writing in and out of class. I will post a detailed assignment sheet on Moodle as we begin each of these major assignments.

The four major assignments listed below make up the contents of your portfolio; in addition, reflective writing assignment from Major Assignment #1: Writing Genre #2, the short assignments/writing genres connected to Major Assignments 2 & 3, and the revision checklists from the “Guide to College Writing” textbook are also part of your portfolio. (See “Portfolio Checklist” in Guide to College Writing for full details).

- Major Assignment #1: Funds of Knowledge Narrative: Emboldening Character and Curating Your Heritage
- Major Assignment #2: Inquiry-Based Research Essay
- Major Assignment #3: Cultural Analysis: Understanding the “Other” and Searching for Common Ground
- Major Assignment #4: A Writer’s Recipe (aka Your Theory of Writing)

Your major assignments will give you the opportunity to compose in a range of genres for a range of academic and civic situations. You’ll have opportunities to use observations and experience as evidence, as well as learn strategies for composing effective arguments and conducting academic research.

You will have the chance to develop all your major projects through a process of inquiry and drafting. You’ll compose papers in and out of class, alone and in small groups. For some of your writings, I’ll ask you to bring enough draft copies to share with your group or ask you to e-mail your papers to group members for an online workshop. All major assignments must be completed for you to pass the course. I will respond to these projects with written comments focused on suggestions for revision, but I will also mark them using a check system to help you know where you stand on a specific project.

Common Policies and Procedures

General Class Expectations
✦ All reading assignments will be completed by the assigned date. I reserve the right to assign random reading quizzes to make sure that you’ve done the readings and have come prepared for class discussion.
✦ All writing assignments must be turned in on time.
✦ Major assignments must be typed, double-spaced, keep one inch margins, and use twelve-point Times New Roman. If you have questions about formatting, then please see me or review the sheet I’ve made available on Moodle.
✦ Attend class. See the attendance policy.
✦ Actively, vocally, and appropriately participate in class discussions.
✦ Any individual assignments (including requests for conferences) will be completed by the assigned date.
Grading
I encourage you to talk with me at any time to better understand my comments or to discuss your overall progress and success in the class.

- Participation: 35% (Attendance, being on time for class, in-class participation, contributions to peer workshop and small group work, freewriting assignments, 10 journal entries, presentations, timely submission of ALL pre and post-conference worksheets, library research journal from the textbook, etc.)

- Final Portfolio: 65% (Major Writing Assignments 1-4, Major Assignment #1: Writing Genre #2 & #3, the short assignments/writing genres connected to Major Assignments #2 & #3, and the revision checklists from the “Guide to College Writing” textbook are all part of your portfolio.

You must earn a C- in this class to be awarded credit.

You must turn in your portfolio and complete all major assignments by their deadlines in order to receive credit for this course.

Grading Policy
Students enrolled in WRIT 101 are graded by the traditional letter grade A, B, C, D, F or are given NC for no credit. The NC grade does not affect grade point average. It is reserved for students who have worked unusually hard, attended class regularly and completed all assignments but whose skills are not at a passing level at the end of the semester.

Attendance
If you register for this course and miss the first two classes, you will need to drop the course on Cyberbear and enroll in another semester. This is university policy and the reasoning behind it is that important groundwork for the semester is put in place in the first few class meetings. Students without that foundational framework are better served by taking the course when they can give it the attention it deserves. Once you are registered for my section of WRIT 101, the following course attendance policy goes into effect: more than three absences from a M-W-F class will compromise your grade. 6 or more absences from a M-W-F class will result in a failing grade.

Here's the breakdown:

- 4th absence: final grade drops one letter grade (A drops to B)
- 5th absence: final grade drops two letter grades (A drops to C)
- 6th absence: final grade is an F

Here’s the reasoning behind the attendance policy. Without attending class, you cannot perform your role as a student involved in learning, planning, inventing, drafting; discussing reading and writing; learning and practicing rhetorical moves and concepts; or collaborating with your instructor and classmates. Personal situations and required university events may arise that, on a rare occasion, make it impossible for you to be in class. Remember, however, that’s why a few absences are allowed; please reserve those for emergencies.

I reserve the right to adjust the policy in cases of significant, documented illness or emergency. Please note that instances of poor time management on your part do not constitute extenuating circumstances. If you must miss class, you are responsible for obtaining any handouts or assignments for the class from a classmate. Make sure you talk with me in advance if you are worried about meeting a deadline or missing a class.

Participation
Participation includes coming to class prepared and on time, taking part in class discussions, asking questions, contributing your knowledge and insights in whatever form is appropriate, striving to make all your contributions excellent, and completing all 10 journal entries. It also includes doing the required reading and writing for each class. Lateness will hurt your grade because it is an unnecessary interruption and because latecomers are likely to miss valuable information. I will take attendance at the beginning of each class. You will be considered late if you walk in during or after attendance is completed. I will mark you as absent if you make this a habit. Please see Participation Grade Descriptors for more information.

Late Work
Your work needs to be typed, printed, and in class with you to be considered “on time.”

- Assignments submitted (via e-mail or hardcopy) after the deadline are considered late.
- Major assignments submitted late will receive no revision comments from me.
- Major assignments submitted late will be impacted in the final portfolio grade; tardiness will cause you to miss out on important feedback regarding revisions.
- If you miss class, the homework is due the next class period. Homework refers to reading assignments, journals, etc. and NOT major assignments. If you are absent the day a major assignment is due you must contact me to discuss the situation—you are not automatically given an extension.
- You are always welcome to complete assignments early if you will be missing class.

Academic Conduct
You must abide by the rules for academic conduct described in the Student Conduct Code. If you have any questions about when and how to avoid academic dishonesty, particularly plagiarism, please review the Conduct Code and talk with your instructor. The Council of Writing Program Administrators describes plagiarism as follows: “plagiarism occurs when a writer deliberately uses someone else’s language, ideas or other original (not common-knowledge) material without acknowledging its source.” Academic honesty is highly valued in the University community and acts of plagiarism will not be tolerated.

Composition Program Plagiarism Policy for WRIT 101
According to the University of Montana Student Conduct Code, plagiarism is “representing another person's words, ideas, data, or materials as one's own.” The Composition program recognizes that plagiarism is a serious academic offense, but also understands that some misuse of information can occur in the process of learning information literacy skills. Therefore, if student writing appears to have been plagiarized, in full or in part, intentionally or unintentionally, or due to poor citation, the following will procedure will take place:

- The student will be made aware of areas in the text that are not properly integrated or cited.
- The student will receive no credit on the paper; it is up to him/her to prove that he/she turned in original work.
- The student will be asked to provide the teacher with copies of the research she/he used in writing the paper.
- The student and teacher will meet to discuss research integration.
- If the student cannot provide documentation of her/his research, further disciplinary action will be taken.

In the case that the student is unable to provide evidence of his/her original work or in the case that the teacher has evidence that the student has repeatedly plagiarized his/her work, the teacher will consult with the Director of Composition for direction with further disciplinary action.

In the case of blatant or egregious offenses, or in the case of repeated plagiarism, the Director of Composition will work with the Dean of Students to determine further disciplinary action.

Students should review the Student Conduct Code so that they understand their rights in academic disciplinary situations. The Student Conduct Code can be found here: http://www.umt.edu/vpsa/policies/student_conduct.php

Students with Disabilities
Qualified students with disabilities will receive appropriate accommodations in this course. Please speak with me privately after class or in my office. Please be prepared to provide a letter from your DSS Coordinator.
Short & Informal Writing Assignments
You will receive comments from me, but no grade on informal writing submissions. Short assignments play an important part in your overall participation grade. Short assignments include journals, freewriting, etc.

Major Writing Assignments
To give you a sense of the check system I’ll be using, please refer to the following descriptors.

★ Check: A project with a check generally meets its rhetorical goals in terms of purpose, genre, and writing situation without need for extensive revision. Written comments will elaborate on strengths, weaknesses, and strategies for focused revision.

★ Check minus: A project with a check minus meets the basic requirements, but would benefit from significant revision and a stronger understanding of rhetorical decision-making. Written comments will elaborate on strengths, weaknesses, and strategies for revision.

★ Unsatisfactory: A project with a U does not meet basic standards, and requires extensive development and attention. An unsatisfactory submission may be incomplete or inappropriate to the assignment. Such a submission may receive a request to rewrite within a week in order to receive teacher comments.

Portfolio Letter Grade Descriptors for WRIT 101

A
Superior portfolios will demonstrate initiative and rhetorical sophistication that go beyond the requirements. A portfolio at this level is composed of well-edited texts representing different writing situations and genres that consistently show a clear, connected sense of audience, purpose and development. The writer is able to analyze his or her own writing, reflect on it, and revise accordingly. The portfolio takes risks that work.

B
Strong portfolios meet their rhetorical goals in terms of purpose, genre, and writing situation without need for further major revisions of purpose, evidence, audience, or style/mechanics. The writer is able to reflect on his or her own writing and make some choices about revision. The writer takes risks, although they may not all be successful.

C
Consistent portfolios meet the basic requirements, yet the writing would benefit from further revisions of purpose, evidence, audience, or writing style/mechanics (or some combination) and a stronger understanding of rhetorical decision-making involved in different writing situations and genres. The writer composes across tasks at varying levels of success with some superficial revision. The writer has taken some risks in writing and exhibits some style.

D
Weak portfolios do not fully meet the basic evaluative standards. Most texts are brief and underdeveloped. These texts show a composing process that is not yet elaborated or reflective of rhetorical understanding related to composing in different genres and for a range of writing situations. Texts generally require extensive revisions to purpose, development, audience, and/ or style and mechanics.

F
Unacceptable portfolios exhibit pervasive problems with purpose, development, audience, or style/mechanics that interfere with meaning and readers’ understanding. Unacceptable portfolios are often incomplete. A portfolio will also earn an F if it does not represent the writer’s original work.
Participation Letter Grade Descriptors for WRIT 101

A
Superior participation shows initiative and excellence in written and verbal work. The student helps to create more effective discussions and workshops through his/her verbal, electronic, and written contributions. Reading and writing assignments are always completed on time and with attention to detail. In workshop or conferences, suggestions to group members are tactful, thorough, specific, and often provide other student writers with a new perspective or insight.

B
Strong participation demonstrates active engagement in written and verbal work. The student plays an active role in the classroom but does not always add new insight to the discussion at hand. Reading and writing assignments are always completed on time and with attention to detail. In workshop or conferences, suggestions to group members are tactful, specific, and helpful.

C
Satisfactory participation demonstrates consistent, satisfactory written and verbal work. Overall, the student is prepared for class, completes assigned readings and writings, and contributes to small group workshops and large class discussions. Reading and writing assignments are completed on time. In workshop or conferences, suggestions to group members are tactful and prompt, but could benefit from more attentive reading and/or specific detail when giving comments.

Weak participation demonstrates inconsistent written and verbal work. The student may be late to class, unprepared for class, and may contribute infrequently or unproductively to classroom discussions or small group workshops. Reading and writing assignments are not turned in or are insufficient. In workshops or conferences, suggestions to group members may be missing, disrespectful, or far too brief and general to be of help.

F
Unacceptable participation shows ineffectual written and verbal work. The student may be excessively late to class, regularly unprepared, and not able to contribute to classroom discussions or small group workshops. This student may be disruptive in class. Reading and writing assignments are regularly not turned in or are insufficient. In workshops or conferences, the student has a pattern of missing, being completely unprepared, or being disruptive.
