INTRO TO GERMAN CULTURE AND CIVILIZATION

GRMN 106H

Spring 2019

Instructor Information

Instructor: Marton Marko
Email: marton.marko@mso.umt.edu

Course Description:

This online course offers an introductory overview of major developments, ideas, and influences involving German culture from the Roman era to the present day. You will learn about historical events in Central Europe as well as important figures in German-speaking culture in such fields as politics, literature, music, the arts, science, religion, and philosophy, among others. You will also become familiar with significant contributions that German-speaking culture has made globally over the years up to the present, including in the US. As an online course, the class is designed to guide you through readings and other textual, visual, and audio material that will help you understand important characteristics and significant issues pertinent to German culture historically and today.

Learning Outcomes, Assessment Activities

Learning Outcomes

As you will be presented different texts, historical discussions, and examples of artistic and literary works, you will have the opportunity to synthesize the course material in a number of ways to illustrate your ability to identify key phenomena, figures, ideas, and cultural institutions in the German-speaking world. You will also have the chance to interpret the significance of each in the context of both German cultural history and in global light. These opportunities will be given via an online discussion forum, quizzes, response papers, midterm exams and a final exam. Each of these will help you gauge your specific knowledge of material as well as provide the chance to synthesize and interpret facts, ideas, and works in broader terms.

Assessment Activities

Discussion Forum:

The course provides a discussion forum which will feature weekly prompts to get you thinking and sharing ideas with the class group. Be sure to take advantage of the opportunity to respond to questions and comments which appear in the forum. Your participation will be assessed 3 times during the semester, at the time of the two midterm exams and after the final week of instruction.
Quizzes:

From the second week on, there will be a short quiz offered each week, primarily covering terms and figures to identify and contextualize amid themes in the course. The quizzes give you the chance to gauge how well you are following fundamentals of the course material as well as important ideas covered in class.

Response Papers:

You will write three response papers (3 pages in length each) based on prompts related to material treated at different points in the course. The response papers give you the chance to address a particular topic in some depth and with compositional structure. Topics and specific tips for each paper will be provided as they are assigned. You will have a week to complete each paper.

Exams:

There are two written midterm exams and a written final exam. Emphasis on the exams will be placed on the definition and identification of key terms, guiding ideas, and trends connecting and influencing time periods, movements, and issues in German culture throughout history and today. You will have a week to complete each exam. The exams are open-book. The final exam will be cumulative and given at the end of the last week of instruction in class and due at the end of finals week.

Required Text and Other Materials and Resources

Other materials and resources, such as videos, slides, and weblinks, are included in the class website and offered by weekly topic and theme.

Course Guidelines, Policies, Grading

Participation and Due Dates

Take advantage of the opportunity to offer thoughts, ideas, and questions in the class online forum. Your participation in the forum will comprise 12% of your total class grade. Quizzes, tests, and response papers are due on the time and date given for each assignment. If you have a documentable excuse for not handing work in on time, you need to inform your instructor. Otherwise, late work will receive a demotion in points or be subject to not being accepted.

Student Conduct Code

All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or a disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code.

Course withdrawal

January 31, 2019 is the last day to withdraw from this course on CyberBear with refund + no “W” on transcript. For a detailed listing of important University dates and deadlines, please visit http://www.umt.edu/registrar/calendar.php
Disability Modifications
This course offers equal opportunity in education for all participants, including those with documented physical and documented learning disabilities. Please note that your instructor can only provide for such accommodations if notified and that such accommodations and considerations can only be made after an instructor has been provided information by the student. For information regarding documentation of disabilities, approaching your instructor with pertinent information, and establishing guidelines for potential accommodation, you may consult the Disability Services for Students (DSS). The DSS Office is located in Lommasson 154; the phone number is (406) 243-2243.
