American History I

HSTA 101/103 | Fall 2020
Lecture meets Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10:00-10:50AM, Remote via ZOOM

Professor Claire Arcenas | claire.arcenas@umontana.edu | office: LA 261
Office hours: Via ZOOM! Wednesday 1-2PM, Friday 11AM-12PM, & by appointment.

Teaching Assistants (TAs) for Tuesday/Thursday Discussion Sections:
Katie Pedersen (katherine.pedersen@umontana.edu); Jacob Schmidt (jacob1.schmidt@umconnect.umt.edu); and Tyler Sparing (tyler1.sparing@umconnect.umt.edu).

Course Overview and Goals:
This course will introduce you to some of the major questions, problems, and themes in American history between the late sixteenth century and the period of Reconstruction following the Civil War. We will pay particular attention to social, cultural, economic, environmental, and political factors as we examine the development of Britain’s empire in North America and the Caribbean; the reasons for and impact of the American Revolution; the challenges and opportunities facing the new American nation following the ratification of the US Constitution; and the causes and consequences of the Civil War.

Learning about the past should be fun, interesting, and engaging! In this class, you will learn that history is far more than memorizing facts, dates, and people’s names. It’s about discovering surprises; piecing together funny, sad, and inspiring stories from what are often only fragmentary bits of evidence; and answering puzzling questions about what happened and why.

Why was hard cider so important to English colonists in the seventeenth century? What did Abigail Adams mean when she told her husband, John Adams, to “remember the ladies” in the 1770s? How do historians know about the brutal conditions of slaves’ lives on a Southern plantation on the eve of the Civil War? When did “These United States” become “The United States”? These are some of the (many!) questions we will explore together in this class.

Using evidence from primary sources as well as interpretations provided by historians, we will examine colonial expansion and its impact on native populations; the relationship between slavery and Euro-Americans’ conceptions of freedom; the emergence of capitalism; the place of religion in American thought, culture, and politics; changing meanings of democracy; and the role women played in public and private life. We will explore questions of historical perspective and interpretation throughout the semester. What does it mean to take the past on its own terms? How do we know what we do about the past? What are good questions to ask of the past? By probing questions such as these, you will come away with a deeper and richer understanding of American history and its bearing on the world around you today.

Learning Outcomes:
By taking this class, you will:
- acquire and retain specific knowledge about the past (i.e. what happened and why)
- acquire the tools and skills for analyzing and interpreting history (i.e. why what happened in the past is important or significant)
- learn critical thinking and communication skills that will enable you to convey your ideas clearly and persuasively both orally and in writing
Class Structure:
This course will meet for three fifty-minute remote, online lectures M/W/F with the professor via ZOOM and one fifty-minute face-to-face discussion section T/W (honors)/Th. with your TA.* Lectures are not summaries of the readings; rather, they will provide critical context, framing, and interpretation. To succeed in this class, therefore, you must attend the remote lectures in addition to participating in your discussion sections, completing all the readings, taking notes, and carefully preparing for the exams. For each lecture (after Day 1), I will upload a lecture outline to Moodle. I will do my best to have this online by 9 am each lecture day, and you should feel free to use what I upload to help you follow along, take notes, and review ahead of your exams. Please note that I reserve the right to stop posting these materials at any point throughout the semester. They are meant to help you get more out of lecture, not to make it easier for you to skip class! 😊

Required Texts:
All readings for this course will be available electronically via LaunchPad and MOODLE. Your course fee covers the cost of the books you will need for this class. If you would like a paper version of the textbook and reader, you can purchase one for a significantly discounted price at the UM Bookstore. In class, I will provide further information about accessing the readings.

1. James L. Roark, et al., The American Promise: A Concise History, Vol. 1: To 1877, Eighth Edition (2020). This is the course textbook and will be referred to as overview reading below. You will access this through an online site called LaunchPad. Instructions will be provided.
2. Michael P. Johnson, Reading the American Past: Selected Historical Documents, Vol. 1: To 1877, Eighth Edition (2020). This is a reader with selections from original, primary source documents. Readings are denoted by RAP + page numbers, e.g. (RAP, 30-32). You will access this through an online site called LaunchPad. Instructions will be provided.
3. All other readings will be available through MOODLE.

Further Details on Course Requirements and Expectations:

a. Attendance and Participation
   You are expected to attend all lectures and weekly discussion sections. You should take diligent notes in lecture and on all of your readings. In discussion section, you are expected to participate actively. When thinking about your participation in your discussion section, it might be helpful to imagine yourself as a co-discussion-facilitator; participation means both constructively contributing to discussion and actively engaging with your peers. Being a good participant also means being a good listener. Your contributions to discussion should be based primarily on the discussion reading, which is explained below.

b. Reading
   You should take good notes on all the reading you do. If you have questions or are having difficulty taking notes, ask your TA for suggestions. Each week, you will complete two types of reading.

* Please note, the delivery format of this course may change at any point! See below for Covid-19-related policies.
• Overview reading: a portion (usually a chapter or two) of the course textbook. You should complete this reading over the course of the week it is assigned. Lectures will reinforce, expand on, or sometimes deviate from material covered in the overview reading.

• Discussion reading: a few primary or secondary source documents from Reading the American Past (RAP) or other sources posted on Moodle. These readings will form the basis of your discussions in section with your TA.

c. Exams

For this course, you will complete three exams. Exam #1 will likely comprise a series of short answer and short essay response questions. Exam #2 will likely comprise one slightly longer essay. And Exam #3 will likely comprise short answer as well as essay response questions. Given the nature of the course this term, all exams will be “take-home,” exams are due the day/time specified below. More information on the exams will be distributed later in the semester.

Grading (Your grade for this course will be determined by the following components):

a. Discussion section participation and weekly assignments (35%)
   - Your TAs will provide you with additional information about these weekly assignments. They may include short writing assignments, discussion questions, film responses, and reading quizzes.

b. Exam 1 (20%): Due by 11:59pm on Monday, September 28th.

c. Exam 2 (20%): Due by 11:59pm on Friday, October 30th.

d. Exam 3 (25%): Due by 11:59pm on Friday, November 20th.

This course will follow this grading rubric:

- A: 93-100
- A-: 90-92
- B+: 87-89
- B: 83-86
- B-: 80-82
- C+: 77-79
- C: 73-76
- C-: 70-72
- D+: 67-69
- D: 63-66
- D-: 60-62
- F: 59 and below

Covid-19-Related Policies For Your In-Person Discussion Sections:

In accordance with University policy, for your in person discussion sections, you are required to wear a face mask covering your nose and mouth at all times while inside the classroom. You can find more details and up-to-date information from the University of Montana at https://www.umt.edu/coronavirus and https://www.umt.edu/coronavirus/fall2020.php. We will be following all the protocols outlined in UM’s Healthy Fall 2020 Plan and adapt as necessary. In addition to the mandatory mask requirement, please make note of the following policies:

- You have been provided with a cleaning kit. You are expected to clean your personal work space when you arrive for class, and before you leave the classroom.
- Your TAs will be taking attendance and they will use a fixed seating arrangement in your classrooms.
- You are discouraged from eating or drinking while inside your classroom (because both require you to remove your mask!).
- Stay home if you feel sick and/or if you are exhibiting COVID-19 symptoms.
• If you are sick and/or displaying COVID-19 symptoms, please contact the Curry Health Center at (406)243-4330 ASAP.
• Thank you for your vigilance! We are all in this together.

Remote, Online Learning:
For the lecture portion of our class (M/W/F at 10am), you will need the following:
• a computer (or tablet);
• a reliable internet connection (if you are on campus, please connect via eduroam, not grizzly guest);
• a quiet workspace with enough room to accommodate not only your computer, but also a notebook (even in a remote class, handwritten notes are the best!) and any papers you may have printed;
• a microphone, and, most likely, a set of headphones;
• and an up-to-date version of ZOOM.

Synchronous online learning presents unique challenges as well as opportunities! To ensure you get the most out of the class, please put away your cellphone, silence all notifications, and close out of any applications or windows not related to our class. YouTube and e-mail can wait!

Finally, during our first few class sessions, we will go over the nuts and bolts of ZOOM, so don’t worry if you’re not familiar with the platform. Please do, however, begin to familiarize yourself with the online platforms we will use, including ZOOM, Moodle, and Cyberbear: https://www.umt.edu/umonline/keep_on_learning/tools_keep_on_learning.php.

Recording: Please note, at this point, I am not planning to record lectures. If you miss a lecture, it is your responsibility to get notes from a friend or study-buddy, speak with your TA, or talk with me. Please do not record our ZOOM meetings or your in person discussion sections. Doing so without notice and permission is a violation of University policy.

Communications: All communications for this class will be conducted via UM e-mail accounts and Moodle. Please e-mail the professor and TAs using only your UM e-mail account.

Flexibility and Adaptability: This semester, we will all need to be flexible as we navigate the uncertainties wrought by COVID-19. I will do my best to communicate any changes related to our class as quickly and clearly as we can. Your TAs and I will also do my best to accommodate any special circumstances that may arise and ask that you do the same.

Academic Honesty: Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with UM’s Student Conduct Code and conducting themselves accordingly. Academic dishonesty, including plagiarism and cheating, will result in appropriate disciplinary action and possibly a failing grade. An easy rule to follow is that all work you produce for this class should be your own. Please ask the professor or your TA if you have any questions.

Students with Disabilities: As per university policies, reasonable accommodations will be made. To ensure that the proper steps can be taken, please speak with the professor as early in the semester as possible. It is your responsibility to speak with the professor and to provide the proper documentation from Disability Services for Students (DSS). You can visit www.umt.edu/dss for additional details and information.
Tentative Weekly Schedule of Lectures and Readings
(Please check Moodle for the most up-to-date information!)

Along with each week’s lecture topics and reading assignments, you will find a series of questions to help guide your reading. Please consider these questions before your discussion section. Also included are a few “big picture” questions to help you draw connections between the readings, lecture, and discussion. HINT: These may be helpful as you review for exams.

Reading Questions: What is a primary source? Why do you think primary sources are so important for historians? When you read or examine a historic document, material artifact, or visual source, for example, what should you make note of? What is the historic context for Richard Hakluyt’s “A Discourse Concerning Western Planting”? Who is Richard Hakluyt? Can you decipher what the purpose of this document was? Who was its intended audience?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What are some of the challenges historians encounter when writing about the history of Native Americans both before and after contact with Europeans? Were economic or social factors more important in explaining the emergence of racial slavery in the southern mainland North American colonies? What was the importance of tobacco as a major crop on the development of the early Chesapeake colonies? When and how did Caribbean slave patterns begin to diverge from mainland North American slave patterns?

W (9/2): Growth and Conflict in New England
F (9/4): Film: We Shall Remain: After the Mayflower

Discussion Reading:
- “Richard Frethorne Describes Indentured Servitude in Virginia,” 1623 (RAP, 31 – 35)
- “Bacon’s Rebellion,” 1676 (RAP, 40 - 43)
- Ship registers for Virginia and New England **

Reading Questions: What portrait of life as an indentured servant does Richard Frethorne paint in his letters home? What kind of information does a letter convey that other types of sources do not? What does Nathaniel Bacon’s “Declaration” reveal about social and political power in late seventeenth-century Virginia?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: Who was leaving Britain for New England and why? In other words, what political and religious factors do you think were pushing New England’s European colonists from Britain? Were settlers in the Chesapeake, Middle Colonies, or New England the most religiously tolerant? What might account for the answer you gave to the last question? What were two of the most important take-aways from the film, We Shall Remain?

Week 4: Establishing Colonial Societies

Overview Reading: Chapter 5

M (9/7): NO CLASS – LABOR DAY!
W (9/9): A Mixed Multitude: The Middle Colonies
F (9/11): Educational, Religious, and Scientific Awakenings

Discussion Reading:
- “The Arbella Sermon,” 1630 (RAP, 48 - 53)
- “Wampanoag Grievances at the Outset of King Philip’s War,” 1675 (RAP, 54 – 57)
- “Words of the Bewitched,” 1692 (RAP, 61 - 64)

Reading Questions: What type of social organization is John Winthrop describing in his speech “A Model of Christian Charity”? How is this different from the way we talked about society developing in the southern colonies earlier in class? What do Easton’s observations reveal about interactions between Puritan colonists and Native Americans? What are the challenges of using a source like Easton’s narrative? What sort of social, economic, political, religious, or environmental anxieties are brought to the surface during the witchcraft trials at Salem, Massachusetts in 1692?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What were some key features of the so-called Middle Colonies? How would you explain the Great Awakening to a curious friend? Why is it important for our understanding of eighteenth-century America? Why were the Enlightenment philosophies of John Locke and Isaac Newton important for eighteenth-century colonists?

Week 5: Slavery and Provincial Culture

Overview Reading: Chapter 5 (again!)

M (9/14): The Growth of Provincial Culture
W (9/16): Film: The Language You Cry In
F (9/18): The Eighteenth-Century South: The Formation of a Bi-Racial Society

Discussion Reading:
- “Poor Richard’s Advice,” 1757 (RAP, 69 - 73)
- “Advertisements for Runaway Slaves,” 1737-1745 (RAP, 79 – 83)
- David Waldstreicher, “Reading the Runaways: Self-Fashioning, Print Culture, and Confidence in Slavery in the Eighteenth-Century Mid-Atlantic.”

Reading Questions: What particular kinds of advice did Father Abraham give readers? Why do you think Franklin’s Poor Richard’s Almanac was so popular in eighteenth-century America? We often think of Benjamin Franklin as a “Founding Father,” as a curious man at the end of a kite string with a key, or as an old man in a coonskin cap charming the ladies of Paris. Why is it important to remember that Franklin was first and foremost a printer? How did Waldstreicher’s article flesh out your image of Franklin? What important context did Waldstreicher’s article help you understand about the runaway slave advertisements you read? What is the thesis or main argument of Waldstreicher’s article?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What were the major differences between religious experiences and practices during the Great Awakening compared to those of the religious reform movements of the seventeenth century? In what ways was Franklin part of the Enlightenment in eighteenth-century America? What are some features of the Enlightenment that make it different from intellectual movements in the seventeenth century? What are three words you would use to describe provincial culture in eighteenth-century America? In what specific ways did The Language You Cry In help you understand the possibilities and challenges of studying the history of slavery in North America?

Week 6: Empires in Conflict in Colonial America

Overview Reading: Chapter 6

M (9/21): The Seven Years’ War and Imperial Unrest
W (9/23): The Stamp Act and the Rise of Resistance
F (9/25): Taking Stock and Q&A on material covered thus far

Discussion Reading:
- King George III, “Royal Proclamation” (1763)
- The Declarations of the Stamp Acts Congress (1765)
- “Daniel Leonard Argues for Loyalty to the British Empire,” 1774-1775 (RAP, 97 - 100)

Reading Questions: Why did George III forbid colonial settlement west of the proclamation line? What were American colonists’ objections to the Stamp Act? Do you agree with them? In what ways was the context different for the Declarations of the Stamp Act Congress and the document by Daniel Leonard?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What was the significance of the Seven Years’ War for American colonists? For Native Americans? For the larger British imperial picture? What arguments did the Americans deploy in their attempts to resist taxation by the British Parliament between 1764 and 1775? In what ways should the American Revolution come as a surprise to us? In what ways should it not?

Week 7: From Resistance to Revolution

Overview Reading: Chapter 7

- M (9/28): NO LECTURE. EXAM 1 DUE BY 11:59pm.
- W (9/30): Declaring Independence
- F (10/2): The American People at War

Discussion Reading:
- “Edmund Burke Urges Reconciliation with the Colonies,” 1775 **
- “Thomas Paine Makes the Case for Independence,” 1776 (RAP, 102 - 106)
- “Letters of John and Abigail Adams,” 1776 (RAP, 106 -114)

Reading Questions: What arguments did Paine make about the colonists’ place in the British Empire that American colonists found so convincing? How do Paine’s arguments counter Burke’s claims? What is the significance of Paine appealing to Americans’ “common sense”? What do John and Abigail Adams’s letters reveal about their attitudes toward independence and the future success of the war?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: Would it make more sense to characterize the American War for Independence as a civil war rather than a revolution? Why or why not? Imagine what it would have been like had you been an American colonist in 1776. In what ways could declaring independence from and waging a war against the most powerful empire on earth have seemed like a terrible idea or a brilliant one? Would you have been persuaded by Paine’s argument?

Week 8: A New Nation

Overview Reading: Chapter 8

- M (10/5): Meanings of Independence
- W (10/7): Forging a New National Government
- F (10/9): The 1790s: Putting Things in a Global Perspective

Discussion Reading:
- “Making the Case for the Constitution,” 1787 (RAP, 132 - 137)
- “Mercy Otis Warren Opposes the Constitution,” 1788 (RAP, 137 - 141)

Reading Questions: How would you condense Madison’s argument in Federalist Number 10 into three sentences? According to Madison, why were factions so dangerous to a republic? In Madison’s eyes, why was it better to have a larger republic than a small republic? How did Warren view the Constitution differently than Madison? In Murray’s eyes, did the American Revolution have a positive outcome for women like her?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: How radical was the American Revolution? Compare and contrast what “independence,” “freedom,” and “liberty” meant to different social groups in America, such as landless white men, free blacks, slaves, and white women. Was the American Revolution anti-monarchical or anti-imperial? When we view the American Revolution alongside other revolutions at the time, how does its historical significance change?
lessons were learned during the period of the Articles of Confederation? What were the major differences between the Federalist and anti-Federalist causes? In what ways does the Constitution of 1787 reveal a different republican mindset than the Declaration of Independence of 1776?

Week 9: A New Nation

Overview Reading: Chapter 9

M (10/12): Jeffersonian Contradictions
W (10/14): The Empire of Liberty
F (10/16): War of 1812 and Its Significance

Discussion Reading:
- “Thomas Jefferson on Slavery and Race,” 1782 (RAP, 127 - 131)
- “President George Washington’s Parting Advice to the Nation,” 1796 (RAP, 157 - 161)
- “President Thomas Jefferson’s Private and Public Indian Policy,” 1803-1806 (RAP, 162 - 166)
- “A Slave Demands that Thomas Jefferson Abolish Slavery,” 1808 (RAP, 170 - 173)
- Thomas Jefferson, “Expedition to the Pacific: Instructions to Capt. Lewis” (1803)

Reading Questions: Why does Washington counsel his fellow citizens to resist foreign entanglements? How did Jefferson’s private attitudes towards Native Americans differ from what he said publicly? Why did Jefferson commission the Lewis and Clark Expedition? How do you reconcile Jefferson’s writings in the Declaration of Independence with his attitudes toward slaves and freed black Americans?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What does republicanism mean in the early national years?
What about independence? How is America in the early decades of the nineteenth century different from America in the 1780s and 1790s? In what ways is Jefferson a product of the Enlightenment? If you had to explain “Jeffersonian America” to a friend, what would you say?
Similarly, how would you explain “Jacksonian America”? What is problematic about these descriptions? Are they useful markers of eras? What is the significance of the War of 1812?

Week 10: Improvement and Reform

Overview Reading: Chapters 10 and 11

M (10/19): Market Revolution in the Age of Jackson
W (10/21): Antebellum Reform I
F (10/23): Antebellum Reform II

Discussion Reading:
- “President Andrew Jackson’s Parting Words to the Nation,” 1837 (RAP, 179 - 183)
- “Cherokee Leaders Debate Removal,” 1836-1837 (RAP, 184 - 189)
- “Sarah Grimké on the Status of Women,” 1838 (RAP, 193 - 196)
- “Susan’ Describes Conditions in the Lowell Mills” (1844)

Reading Questions: What were the major problems Jackson had with centralized or growing power of the federal government? Would you say that Jackson’s speech is more forward-looking or backward-looking? Compare and contrast the two letters by John Ross and Elias Bourdinot on Cherokee removal policies. What are the most significant areas in which they disagree? According to Sarah Grimke and “Susan,” what particular issues were white women facing in the 1830s and 1840s and how do these relate to issues of abolition or labor reform?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: In what ways is thinking about the early United States as an empire productive (or not)? What characterizes the Second Great Awakening? What was the implication of the idea of “separate spheres” for women inside and outside the home? When speaking or writing about antebellum America, what do the terms “reform” and “improvement” denote?

Week 11: Division in these United States
Overview Reading: Chapter 12

- M (10/26): Writing Center Presentation & Exam 2 Prompts Distributed in Lecture
- W (10/28): Westward Expansion and the War with Mexico
- F (10/30): NO LECTURE. EXAM 2 DUE BY 11:59pm

Discussion Reading:
- “John O’Sullivan Celebrates Manifest Destiny” (1845)
- “That Woman Is Man’s Equal: The Seneca Falls Declaration,” 1848 (RAP, 210 -214)
- “Party Platforms” (1848)

Reading Questions: In what ways is John O’Sullivan’s Manifest Destiny similar to or different from Thomas Jefferson’s Empire for Liberty? What was the significance of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and the women at Seneca Falls choosing the Declaration of Independence as their template? Does it make their case stronger? What factors might be important for a historian to consider when using party platforms as a primary source?

Big Picture Questions to Consider: What major changes in political party structures are taking place at this time and how do they help us understand major debates about American expansion? Does westward expansion reveal more the limits or the possibilities of American democracy in the antebellum period?

Week 12: The Road to Civil War
Overview Reading: Chapter 13 & 14

- M (11/2): Slavery in Antebellum America
- W (11/4): Nineteenth-Century Electoral Politics and the Compromise of 1850
- F (11/6): Road to Civil War

No Tuesday Discussion Sections This Week! Wednesday & Thursday Sections Meet

Discussion Reading for Wednesday & Thursday Sections:
- Frederick Douglass, selections from “What to the Slave is the Fourth of July?” (1852)
- “The Kansas-Nebraska Act,” 1854 (RAP, 233 - 236)
- “The Antislavery Constitution,” 1860 (RAP, 238 - 240)
- “The Proslavery Constitution,” 1860 (RAP, 240 - 242)

Reading Questions for Wednesday & Thursday Sections: What are Lincoln’s major arguments against the Kansas-Nebraska Act? Compare and contrast Jefferson Davis’s and Frederick Douglass’s arguments about the relationship between the US Constitution and slavery. Are the two men addressing the same audience? Do they seem to be in conversation or talking past one another? According to Douglass, what was the Fourth of July to slaves in 1852? Who was his audience? What in Douglass’s rhetoric jumps out at you? What use is history or looking to the past for Douglass?

Big Picture Questions for everyone to Consider: What major changes in political party structures are taking place at this time and how do they help us understand major debates about American expansion? Does westward expansion reveal more the limits or the possibilities of American democracy in the antebellum period? How do historians studying plantation life and the daily experiences of slaves know what they know? How can historians identify the agency of individual slaves when so few left written records of their own? In what ways can you apply lessons from the film The Language You Cry In to these questions?

Week 13: Slavery and the Road to Civil War

Overview Reading: Chapter 15

M (11/9): The Civil War
W (11/11): NO CLASS—Veterans Day!
F (11/13): Beginnings of Reconstruction

No Wednesday Discussion Section This Week! Tuesday & Thursday Sections Meet

Discussion Reading for Tuesday Sections:
- Frederick Douglass, selections from “What to the Slave is the Fourth of July?” (1852)
- “The Kansas-Nebraska Act,” 1854 (RAP, 233 - 236)
- “The Antislavery Constitution,” 1860 (RAP, 238 - 240)

Reading Questions for Tuesday Sections: What are Lincoln’s major arguments against the Kansas-Nebraska Act? Compare and contrast Jefferson Davis’s and Frederick Douglass’s arguments about the relationship between the US Constitution and slavery. Are the two men addressing the same audience? Do they seem to be in conversation or talking past one another? According to Douglass, what was the Fourth of July to slaves in 1852? Who was his audience? What in Douglass’s rhetoric jumps out at you? What use is history or looking to the past for Douglass?

Discussion Reading for Thursday Sections:
- “President Lincoln’s War Aims,” 1862-1863 (RAP, 247 - 250)
- “Carl Schurz Reports on the Condition of the Defeated South,” 1865 (RAP, 267 - 271)
- “Klan Violence Against Blacks,” 1871 (RAP, 281- 284)

Reading Questions for Thursday Sections: After reading the three documents in the series “President Lincoln’s War Aims,” what would you say the most significant developments were in Lincoln’s attitudes toward slavery and the goals of the war between 1862 and the end of 1863? How would you characterize the early years of Reconstruction? What particular economic, political, and social challenges did the South face in 1865? How were these different from the challenges faced by the North?
Big Picture Questions to Consider: What was the significance of free labor on the eve of the Civil War? What was the primary cause of the Civil War? What events led to the war?

Week 14: Reconstruction & the Origins of Modern America Overview Reading: Chapter 16

M (11/16): Reconstruction and the Origins of Modern America
W (11/18): Course Conclusions and Review

No Thursday Discussion Sections This Week! Tuesday & Wednesday Sections Meet

Discussion Reading for Tuesday & Wednesday Sections:
-“President Lincoln’s War Aims,” 1862-1863 (RAP, 247 - 250)
-“Carl Schurz Reports on the Condition of the Defeated South,” 1865 (RAP, 267 - 271)
-“Klan Violence Against Blacks,” 1871 (RAP, 281- 284)

Reading Questions for Tuesday & Wednesday Sections: In reading the three documents in the series “President Lincoln’s War Aims,” what would you say the most significant developments were in Lincoln’s attitudes toward slavery and the goals of the war between 1862 and the end of 1863? How would you characterize the early years of Reconstruction? What particular economic, political, and social challenges did the South face in 1865? How were these different from the challenges faced by the North?

Big Picture Questions for everyone to Consider: In what ways was Reconstruction a success? In what ways was it a failure? What do historians mean when they talk about “Greater Reconstruction”?

Happy end of term!
